DECISION DELAYED ON TARIFF AND TAX LEGISLATION

Order of Precedence to Be Decided at Conference Monday.

A decision as to the order of precedence of tax and tariff legis-lation will not be made until next week.

Arrangements were made yesterday for a conference Monday attended by Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee, and the House Ways and Means Committee, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and a number of Treasury experts and Representative Good, chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations.

The conference was to have been held yesterday, but it was found desirable to postpone it until Monday.

Senator Penrose, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, in announcing the date of the conference, said that the entire situation with said that the entire situation with respect to the revenue problem would be discussed with a view of determining the order in which the measures should be taken up.

Senator Penrose expressed a hope that the subject would be considered from the viewpoint of the country as a whole, and that their would be no effort to press measures designed to benefit particular classes. This was taken to mean that there will be no attempt to consider a measure designed to benefit agriculture alone, and that if an emergency tariff bill is given precedence it will cover all industries, including those protected by the former Payne-Aldrich tariff law and the war industries established in more recent years.

and the war industries established in more recent years.

Secretary of the Treasury Meilon, it was made known, will act as the intermediary of the Congressional committee and President Harding. His advice as to whether tax or tariff revision shall be given precedence is expected to carry Notwithstanding the insistence of Chairman Fordney, of the House Ways and Means Committee, that an emergency tariff bill be given precedence, the belief is growing that the conference may decide to sidetrack all tariff legislation temporarily and take up a tax bill first. Such a program, it is held, would hasten the date of final enactment of a general tariff law rather than delay it. That this would be the case is argued on the theory that consideration of a temporary tariff. Notwithstanding the insistence of consideration of a temporary tariff bill would lead to inevitable delays in the Senate and that many months would be lost before a permanent. tariff bill could be placed on the rector of the Near East Relief:

"I enjoy good, clean musical shows. There is a crying need in the United States today for musical comedies that will have an intellectual and artistic appeal, instead of the kind that are far too often shown where the appeal is mostly to the senses. Such shows should point a moral, much as did the productions of Gilbert and Sullivan, who satirized the foibles of their day.
